Automatic Prediction Of The Severity Of Bugs Using Stack

Yeah, reviewing a books automatic prediction of the severity of bugs using stack could amass your near links listings. This is just one of the solutions for you to be successful. As understood, capability does not recommend that you have fabulous points.

Comprehending as with ease as arrangement even more than other will come up with the money for each success. bordering to, the pronouncement as with ease as perception of this automatic prediction of the severity of bugs using stack can be taken as competently as picked to act.

Predicting bug severity. In this paper, we follow an approach based on linear combination of stack traces and categorical features similarity to calculate similarity of bug reports and predict the severity of an incoming bug report. Given two bug reports (B1, B2) the combined similarity is calculated as follows:(1)SIM(B1,B2)=∑i=14wi*featureiwhere feature1, feature2, feature3and feature4are defined as follows:feature1=Similarityofstacktracesfeature2={1ifB1.

It is used by developers to prioritize bugs which need to be fixed. The problem is that, for various reasons, bug submitters often enter the incorrect severity level, delaying the bug resolution process. Techniques that can automatically predict the severity of a bug can significantly reduce the bug triaging overhead.

resolution process. Techniques that can automatically predict the severity of a bug may significantly reduce the bug triaging overhead. In our previous work, we showed that the stack traces can be used for predicting the severity of a bug with a reasonable accuracy.

Automatic severity assessment and progression prediction can facilitate admission, triage, and referral of COVID-19 patients. This study aims to explore the potential use of lung lesion features in the management of COVID-19, based on the assumption that lesion features may carry important diagnostic and prognostic information for quantifying infection severity and forecasting disease progression.
