UKC Logbook - ROCKFAX Eastern Grit (2006): Top 500

The eastern side of this ring of rock is formed by a 30 mile broken banner that runs from Wharncliffe, north of Sheffield, all the way down to Shining Cliff, south of Matlock. The nucleus of this consists of the classic edges, including the ever popular cliffs of Bamford, Stanage, Froggatt and Curbar. There are many lesser edges, plus a rather fine set of quarries, which are virtually all in ...

Eastern Grit - Rockfax – World Rock Climbing Information

Rockfax seem to do a new addition their guides every few years and they have all been a stepwise improvement. I don't want to fall into the same trap as the US Patent Commissioner in c1900 who (allegedly) said that "Everything that can be invented, has been invented", however, I really don't know where Rockfax can go next with this one... it completely closes the chapter on Western Grit.

Guidebook: Rockfax Eastern Grit; Guidebook: Rockfax Eastern Grit 10th Sep 2006. Back in December 2001 I reviewed the predecessor to this book: Peak Gritstone East. It was, at the time, the first all colour topo guide book I'd seen. I just went back to read my review to see what I'd found wrong with it with a view to comparing with the new version. Alas, my only gripe was with the front ...
