A bit of a different survival story, Dayton O. Hyde's Strange Companion is an excellent adventure story, set in the rugged Yukon wilderness. A young boy runs away from home, and the chores that accompany it. Stowing away on a cargo plane, he quickly becomes friends with the pilot. When the plane goes down in the wilderness, the pilot becomes injured.

With A Strange Companion, Lisa Manterfield has created a well elaborated story focussed on Kat and her dealing with grief. It was easy to get into the story; especially if you have lost a dear one, you understand at least some of Kat's take on things. Kat is of sufficient depth, likeable; I had the urge to support her, help her cope.
