LOIS B. MORRIS—New Personality Self-Portrait Test and ...

Abstract. Online social networking (OSN) sites play many roles ranging from communication to entertainment. The current paper presents an analysis of the recently emerged OSN phenomenon of the selfie (self-portrait photographs of oneself). In two studies involving a total of 1296 men and women, we tested the prediction that selfie-sharing on various OSN sites (including Facebook) is positively related to social exhibitionism, extraversion, and self-esteem.

A person's home is a great location to portray their personality. It's a common technique used by celebrity portrait photographers in order to portray the celebrity's "real personality" and not their varying on-screen personas. This is where you'll see them most relaxed and open to giving their personality to a photo. Photo by Vickie Cook
